

Taiwan: High temperatures forecast

Much of Taiwan is expected to continue experiencing high temperatures through at least September 23. On a three-tier scale, orange heat warnings are the intermediate level, and they are expected to last for at least three days in New Taipei City, with highs of up to 36 C (97 F). The remainder of western Taiwan is under a yellow heat advisory, with temperatures there potentially reaching 36 C (97 F). Taiwan is expected to see high temperatures through at least September 23.