

In the Persian Gulf, sea surface temperatures rose to 97.7°F (36.5°C) last week. One of the warmest sea surface temperatures ever observed on Earth. Persian Gulf lies between Iran and the Arabian Peninsula, is an extension of the Indian Ocean.