

Heavy Snowstorm & Blizzard in Canada

Countries: Canada

Hazard Type: Blizzard Snowstorm

Intensity: Moderate to Heavy

Expected Time of Occurrence: 08 Jan - 09 Jan 2025

Summary of Conditions:

An intense low pressure system is approaching southern Kivalliq from the west. South easterly winds gusting from 60 to 80 km/h will develop early Wednesday accompanied by significant falling snow. Blizzard conditions are expected at Baker Lake beginning near midnight tonight while coastal communities will deteriorate Wednesday morning. The blizzard will persist for 12 to 18 hours before visibilities begin to improve, though lighter snowfall will continue through Thursday.

Rapidly accumulating snow will make travel difficult.

Be prepared to adjust your driving with changing road conditions.
