

US: High temperatures forecast

Heatwave forecast across parts of the southwestern US through at least Sept. 28. The southwest of the United States is expected to see extreme heat through at least September 28th, according to forecast models. A temperature range of approximately 41–45 C (105–114 F) is predicted for the impacted area. The National Weather Service (NWS) has issued excessive heat warnings for much of southern Nevada, western and southwestern Arizona, and southeast California as of late September 25